PROFILE

I am a professional in graphic design, web development, and mobile application development, with extensive experience spanning sales, management, and digital technologies. I worked as a Sales Manager at the official Samsung distributor in Saudi Arabia (Al-Muteboli Group) from 1989 to 2007. I earned a certified degree in Computer Science and Graphic Design from Al-Maamoun International Institute in Damascus in 1994.

Following my career in sales, I enhanced my technical expertise by learning web design and development, creating over 400 websites and mobile applications. I earned a Mobile Application Development certificate from Hassoub Academy and participated in advanced workshops and courses in digital marketing with Google and Jeddah Higher Institute for Training. My efforts have consistently delivered tangible results for clients, driving revenue growth and improving digital performance.

My skills include graphic design, website development, mobile application development, and digital marketing.
